14

Office-Supreme Court,
FILED
DEC 10 1951

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,

Petitioner,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Respondent.

PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT AND BRIEF IN SUPPORT THEREOF

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

ROGGE, FABRICANT & GORDON,
of Counsel.

JUDICIAL PRINTING CO., INC., 82 Beekman St., N. Y.—BEekman 3-9084-5-6 182

INDEX

PAGE

Opinions Below 2

Jurisdiction 2

Statutes Involved 2

Questions Presented 2

Statement of the Matter Involved 3

Preliminary Statement 3

The Indictment 4

The Trial 6

Specification of Errors 13

Summary of Argument 14

Reasons Relied on for Allowance of Writ and Argument in Support 15

I—The refusal of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to dismiss the indictment and/or reverse the judgment of conviction of the Trial Court on the grounds that the indictment was erroneously returned under former Sections 80 and 88 of Title 18 of the United States Code was in conflict with the decisions of this Court and of the Courts of Appeals of other Circuits 15

PAGE

II—The decision of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirming the judgment of conviction by the Trial Court and the refusal of the Trial Court to dismiss Count I of the indictment on the grounds that it fails to allege sufficiently the elements of an offense was error and in conflict with the decision of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in Hamner v. United States, 134 F. 2nd 592 28

III—The decision of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirming the judgment of conviction by the Trial Court and the refusal of the Trial Court to dismiss Count I of the indictment on the grounds that the indictment was insufficient for failing to charge overt acts pursuant to the alleged conspiracy is in conflict with the decisions of this Court 30

Conclusion 31

Appendix 33

CASES CITED

Bruno v. United States, 289 F. 649 (C. A. 1) 23

Chase v. United States, 256 U. S. 1 19
Curione v. United States, 11 F. 2d 471, 472 22

District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18, 27..16, 19, 26

E. M. Fish Co. v. Young, 127 Wisc. 149 ..... 7n

Farley v. United States, 269 F. 721 (C. A. 9) 23

Hamner v. United States, 134 F. 2d 592 (C. A. 5).. 28, 29
Henrietta Mining & M. Co. v. Gardner, 173 U. S. 123.. 19
Hyde v. Shine, 199 U. S. 62 30

PAGE

Hyde v. United States, 225 U. S. 347 30

Karrell v. United States, 181 F. 2d 981 (C. A. 9) 16, 24
King v. Cornell, 106 U. S. 395 19

Lindoft v. Vandenburg, 201 Wisc. 330 ..... 7n

Maresca v. United States, 277 F. 727, 738, cert. den., 257 U. S. 657 23
Morris Plan Indus. B. v. Finn, 149 F. 2d 591, 592 22
Murdock v. Memphis, 87 U. S. (20 Wall.) 590 19
Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95 19

Pana v. Bowler, 107 U. S. 529 19
Posados v. National City Bank, 296 U. S. 497, 503 16

Rinzel v. Stumpf, 116 Wisc. 287 ..... 7n
Rosenthal v. United States, 248 F. 684 22

The Paquete Habana, 175 U. S. 677 19
Tracy v. Tuffy, 134 U. S. 206 19

Ulmer v. United States, 219 F. 641, 647-648 22
United States v. Auffmordt, 122 U. S. 197 .....19, 20
United States v. Borden Co., 308 U. S. 188, 199 16
United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546, 549 .....16, 19
United States v. Fisher, 109 U. S. 143 19
United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86, 95-96 .....16, 24
United States v. Hirsch, 100 U. S. 33 30
United States v. Oakland, 81 F. Supp. 343 (W. D. La.) 16, 23
United States v. Selph, 82 F. Supp. 56 (S. D. Cal.)..16, 24
United States v. Tynen, 78 U. S. (11 Wall.) 88...18, 19, 20
United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450 .....19, 20, 26

Wechsler v. United States, 158 F. 579 (C. A. 2) 21, 22

Young v. Hampton, 36 Cal. 2d 799, 803-806 16
Young v. United States, 178 F. 2d 78 (C. A. 9), cert. den. 339 U. S. 913 16

Statutes

PAGE

Act of March 20, 1933, c. 3, Title I, § 15, 48 Stat. 11, 38 U. S. C. A. § 715...2, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 23, 24, 25, 26, 33

Public Law 142, 82nd Cong., 1st Sess. 6n, 25

Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended:

Title III, Section 501 (38 U. S. C. A. § 694a) 3

Title VI, § 1500, 58 Stat. 300, 38 U. S. C. A. § 697(a) 2, 15, 33

United States Code, Title 18, § 1621 22
United States Code, Title 28, Section 1251(1) 2
United States Code, Title 38, § 712 25
United States Code, Title 38, § 713 25
United States Code, Title 38, § 714 25
United States Code, Title 38, § 716 25

18 U. S. C. A., Chap. 11, 15, 47 28
18 U. S. C. A. § 287, formerly part of 18 U. S. C. A. § 80 .....1, 4, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 24, 25, 29, 33
18 U. S. C. A. § 371, formerly part of 18 U. S. C. A. § 88 as revised 1, 4, 5, 14, 15, 29, 30, 34
18 U. S. C. A. § 1001, formerly part of 18 U. S. C. A. § 80 .....1, 4, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 24, 25, 29, 34

38 U. S. C. A. § 126 26
38 U. S. C. A. § 555 26
38 U. S. C. A. § 682 26
38 U. S. C. A. § 688a 26
38 U. S. C. A. § 815 .....17, 26

Treatise

Moscowitz, "Trial of a Criminal Case in the Federal Court, 3 F. R. D. 380, 392-393 ..... 17n

Miscellaneous

PAGE

Address of Chief Justice Vinson to the American Bar Association, September 7, 1949 (70 Sup. Ct. Adv. XII, XIV 28

Hearings Before House World War Veterans Legislation Committee on Proposed Legislation and 68th Cong., 2nd Sess., pp. 94-95, 100 ..... 17n

68th Cong., 1st Sess., 65 C. R. 10162, 10170, 11013 .... 17n

68th Cong., 2nd Sess., 66 C. R. 5454 ..... 17n

73rd Cong., 1st Sess., 77 C. R. 254, 584 17

82nd Cong., 1st Sess., S. Rep. 642, H. Rep. 235 16

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No.

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,

Petitioner,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Respondent.

PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

To the Honorable the Chief Justice of the United States and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States:

The petitioner herein prays that a writ of certiorari issue to review the judgment of the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirming the judgment of conviction of petitioner by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin wherein petitioner was found guilty of committing offenses, as charged in two counts, under Sections 88 and 80 of Title 18 of the United States Code (now 18 U. S. C. A. § 371 and §§ 287 and 1001), respectively. The Trial Court imposed a fine of $5,000 on the first count and suspended judgment and sentence on the second count, placing petitioner on probation for a period of two years; the Court of Appeals affirmed the aforesaid judgment.

Opinions Below

Neither the opinions of the Trial Court nor the opinion of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit has been officially reported.

Jurisdiction

The judgment of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit was made and entered on October 23, 1951. The time within which to petition for writ of certiorari was extended to December 10, 1951 by Mr. Justice MINTON.

The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under Section 1254(1) of Title 28 of the United States Code.

Statutes Involved

See Appendix hereto.

Questions Presented

1. Whether the offense of making or causing to be made a false certificate to the Veterans Administration in connection with procuring a guarantee by that agency of a bank loan for the purchase of a home by a veteran pursuant to the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, is indictable and punishable under former § 80 of Title 18 or exclusively under § 715 of Title 38 of the United States Code.

2. Whether the indictment herein is defective in that it fails to allege adequately an agreement to cause to be made a certificate which was false and known by petitioner to be false.

3. Whether the indictment herein is deficient in that it fails sufficiently to allege the performance of overt acts by petitioner in pursuance of the alleged conspiracy.

Statement of the Matter Involved

Preliminary Statement

Pursuant to Title III, Section 501 of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended (38 U. S. C. A. § 694a), the Veterans Administration will guarantee a bank loan to a veteran for the purchase of a home if the purchase price "does not exceed the reasonable value thereof as determined by proper appraisal made by an appraiser designated by the Administrator". Petitioner, an attorney, was prosecuted herein for his alleged participation, as a broker, in a sale by a veteran and his wife (co-defendants Norton H. Pritzkow and Rosemarie E. Pritzkow) of their home to another veteran and his wife (John R. Grunert, Jr., and Alice J. Grunert) wherein the buyer-veteran procured a Veterans Administration bank loan guarantee upon the basis of a purchase price of $9,150, the appraised valuation of the property, and agreed to pay to the sellers $9,150 for the realty and $1,045 for designated items treated by the parties as personalty. In addition to petitioner and the Pritzkows, one Louis R. Potter, an attorney and the father of Rosemarie E. Pritzkow, who acted on behalf of the Pritzkows in the transaction, was named as defendant in the indictment. The Grunerts were not named as parties; they testified as witnesses on behalf of the prosecution. At the conclusion of the prosecution, the indictment was dismissed as against Potter. At the conclusion of the entire case the remaining defendants were each found guilty as charged. Petitioner alone appealed to the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and he alone seeks review upon the instant petition for writ of certiorari.

The Indictment

The first count in substance alleges a conspiracy under former § 88 of Title 18 charging all of the above defendants with a conspiracy to cause the North Avenue Federal Savings and Loan Association of Milwaukee to make and use a false certificate containing fictitious statements and entries for the purpose of inducing the Veterans Administration to guarantee a loan to Grunert by causing the Loan Association to certify to the Veterans Administration that a certain home known as 3751 South 20th Street, Milwaukee, was sold by Pritzkow and his wife to Grunert and his wife for the total cost of $9,150; and causing the Loan Association to certify further to the Veterans Administration that the price does not exceed the reasonable value determined by the property appraisal made by an appraiser designated by the Administrator. It is further alleged that the parties knew said certification to be fraudulent and fictitious in that the total cost to be paid for said home was not $9,150 but to the veteran it was to be $10,195; that the overpayment was by trick, scheme and device by obtaining from Grunert a chattel mortgage as if on personal property upon such items as, among other things, kitchen sink, cabinets and furnace; that the object of the conspiracy was accomplished by the Pritzkows agreeing to sell said home to the veteran for a cost of $9,150 and all of the parties did prepare and execute the necessary documents to effectuate the sale to the veteran; that in order to obtain an additional sum of $1,045 in addition to the agreed price of $9,150, the Pritzkows executed a bill of sale to Grunert upon such items as kitchen sink, cabinets and furnace and they did receive from said Grunert a promissory note secured by said chattel mortgage; and that they did conceal from the North Avenue Federal Savings and Loan Association the additional payment so exacted. The alleged overt acts cited against petitioner are:

(1) That he demanded and received from Grunert $100 earnest money, upon the offer to purchase the property for $9,150.

(2) That he demanded and received from Grunert $900 as additional down payment upon said offer to purchase the property for the sum of $9,150 and signed a receipt therefor.

(3) That the bill of sale which consisted of 13 venetian blinds, 8 screens, 2 storm doors, 14 storm windows and sash, 5 kitchen cabinets 1 kitchen sink and cabinets and 1 gas unit, was witnessed by petitioner and acknowledged by petitioner as a notary public.

(4) That petitioner and Potter were witnesses to the chattel mortgage.

The second count is brought pursuant to former § 80 of Title 18 and charges that petitioner together with the other defendants caused the Loan Association to make and use a false certificate knowing the same to contain fictitious statements and entries and that they did cause the Loan Association to certify to the Veterans Administration that the said home was being sold to Grunert for the total cost of $9,150 and that the price paid or to be paid by Grunert for such property or for the cost of (1) construction, (2) repairs, (3) alterations and (4) improvements, did not exceed the reasonable value determined by the administration's appraiser; that they knew said certification to be fraudulent and fictitious and that the total cost to be paid therefor was to be $10,195; and that the said overpayment was by the trick, scheme and device of obtaining from Grunert a chattel mortgage as if on personal property.

The Trial

The transcript of the trial, which is filed in its entirety upon this petition, is confusing because of the extraordinary conflict in the testimony. No useful purpose can be served at this stage of the prosecution in analyzing in detail the various versions of the transactions here in issue. We think that a reading of the record will make it abundantly clear that petitioner's testimony is the most forthright, plausible and credible of the divergent recitations. Accordingly, the statement here proffered is based primarily upon the testimony of the petitioner.

Before particularizing the fact situation, however, it is appropriate to indicate that it is not disputed that the appraisal made by the Veterans Administration came to $9,150; that Grunert advised the lending institution that he was paying $9,150 for the house he was purchasing; and that the Grunerts agreed to pay to the Pritzkows $9,150 for the realty and $1,045 for certain designated items of personalty. These undisputed facts did not, however, constitute an offense against the laws of the United States* and did not comprise the offense for which the instant prosecution was brought. Tie-in sales were, at the time of the transaction, permissible. The additional factor upon which this prosecution is predicated is the alleged fraudulent concealment by the buyers and defendants of the tie-in sale of property which the parties intended and treated as personalty—and properly so under the applicable state law*—but which the Veterans Administration included in its appraisal of the realty. In this connection petitioner submits that there is lacking any direct evidence that petitioner overtly or covertly participated in any such fraudulent concealment: the purchase price information contained in the loan application form—the specific instrument as to which it is claimed in the indictment that fraud was committed—was supplied by Grunert (Tr. 25) and though a Government witness, Grunert never testified that petitioner even suggested concealment of the total price to be paid. In the only two instances in the record wherein it was directly testified that any defendant was responsible for concealment (Tr. 18-19; 88, 102, 225), there is a total absence of any connection between petitioner and such concealment (Tr. 42; 180). The record is therefore bare of any direct testimony or evidence that petitioner concealed or caused to be concealed the tie-in sale.

* Cf. Public Law 142, 82nd Cong., 1st Sess., enacting H. R. 319 to amend Title III of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 by adding a new Section 503A to provide that in the event of a sale of property "for a consideration in excess of the reasonable value of such property as determined by proper appraisal made by an appraiser designated by the Administrator," where the Veterans Administration has guaranteed a bank loan made in connection with such sale, any participant in such a transaction is liable to treble damages.

The testimony, viewed chronologically, showed the following:

In July of 1947, in answer to an advertisement by the Adams Realty Co., the trade name of petitioner, Rosemarie E. Pritzkow telephoned that her home was for sale (Tr. 336, 557), and Mrs. Alice Drews as the agent for Adams Realty Co. obtained a written listing for the sale (Tr. 336, 384, 410, 558, 644). Petitioner was at no time in that home nor did he ever see it (Tr. 558).

The veteran, Grunert, and his wife, were shown the home by Mrs. Drews, manifested an interest, and agreed to buy it for $10,500 with $1,000 down, subject to "G.I.

* See Lindoft v. Vandenburg, 201 Wisc. 330; E. M. Fish Co. v. Young, 127 Wisc. 149; Rinzel v. Stumpf, 116 Wisc. 287.

 The transcript of the testimony is hereinafter referred to as "Tr."

 When Grunert was asked on cross examination why he did not advise the lending institution of the additional payment to be made for designated items of personalty he affirmed " 'Well, for the simple reason that I didn't know what the whole thing was about, that is, as to whether they should know this or anything like that' " (Tr. 225, 226).

financing" (Tr. 144, 150, 157-159, 242, 559). They were then told by petitioner that the house would have to be appraised by the Veterans Administration and the price would be fixed by the appraiser (Tr. 112, 181-183, 626). A tentative written offer to purchase the home for $10,500, subject to "G.I. financing", was then made by the Grunerts (Tr. 70, 159, 559).

Kathleen Clark, the assistant secretary of the Savings and Loan Association, was informed of such offer and petitioner requested that she have a V. A. appraisal made (Tr. 4, 8, 26, 32). Pritzkow, who is also a veteran of World War II, had purchased the house on a combined F.H.A.-G.I. priority financing plan (Tr. 260, 300, 403). At the time the Pritzkows bought the house it was without improvements (Tr. 272-273); but after the purchase Pritzkow and his wife installed aluminum storms and screens, aluminum venetian blinds, gas unit, kitchen steel cabinets and a kitchen sink, and they paid for these improvements in addition to the price they had paid theretofore for the real estate (Tr. 270-273, 284-285). Before they sold their home to Grunert, the Pritzkows submitted a detailed letter to the F.H.A. specifying the price they had paid for the real estate and for the improvements; they received written permission from F.H.A. to sell the house and improvements for no more than $9,710, plus 5% commission to the broker handling the deal, totalling $10,195.50 (Tr. 267-270, 289, 332-333, 396). Later Miss Clark informed petitioner that the V. A. appraisal of the house was $9,150, but he was not informed as to what the appraisal included or covered (Tr. 561, 595, 641-642).

Shortly after learning about the V. A. appraisal, Grunert came to petitioner's office and was told by petitioner that the house was appraised at $9,150 and if he was to buy it with V. A. financing he could not pay over $9,150 but that if there was personal property that was a matter of separate purchase, he being permitted to buy personal property apart from the real estate at a price agreed between him and the Pritzkows (Tr. 192, 194-196, 565, 627).

Mrs. Pritzkow had informed the petitioner that her father, Louis R. Potter, was an attorney and would represent her and her husband in the sale of the home (Tr. 562, 565). Up to that time petitioner had not known Mr. Potter (Tr. 562).

Petitioner informed Potter that the V. A. appraisal of his daughter's home was $9,150 and that was the top price the buyers could pay, but that the buyer-veteran and his wife were willing to buy personal property from the Pritzkows on terms they were to agree upon (Tr. 566). It was then that Potter informed petitioner that the Pritzkows had personal property to sell and that petitioner could have Grunert, the veteran, sign an offer to purchase the real estate for $9,150 and personal property for $1,045 which would include the articles to be itemized later (Tr. 566, 568). Potter explained to petitioner that the Pritzkows had F.H.A. permission to sell their home with improvements including venetian blinds, together with broker's commission for $10,195; the real estate to be sold for $9,150 and the personal property, a list of which he would give petitioner later, for $1,045 (Tr. 604-606).

Grunert signed an offer to purchase the real estate for $9,150, subject to "G.I. financing," and an offer to purchase venetian blinds and such other personal property to be left by the sellers to be paid in monthly payments of $25, including interest at 4% (Tr. 159, 184, 192, 197, 242-243, 567). Grunert expressed satisfaction with said propositions except that he preferred to have the monthly payments reduced (Tr. 567). Thereupon Potter enumerated the items to be sold by the Pritzkows as personal property, to-wit: venetian blinds, screens, storm doors, sash, kitchen cabinets and a gas unit (Tr. 568, 628, 641). Petitioner then questioned Potter as to whether the items other than the venetian blinds could be considered personal property (Tr. 568). Potter vigorously and authoritatively contended that the intentions of the parties and not the attachment of the fixtures to the real estate determined whether such fixtures are treated as personalty; that the Pritzkows had purchased these items previously apart from the real estate and that they had considered same as personal property and their intentions were to sell same as such; Potter then substantiated his position with cases of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin which he claimed held that it was solely a matter of intention of the parties (Tr. 463, 515, 568, 570, 690).

The following night the Grunerts, their two young children, the Pritzkows, Potter, and Mrs. Drews met with petitioner and his secretary, Theresa Stranzel, in petitioner's office to consider the terms of the deal (Tr. 659, 664). After reading the Wisconsin Supreme Court cases cited by Potter and relying upon those cases and Potter's self-professed expertise on the subject, petitioner proceeded with the deal as outlined by Potter. Potter thereupon requested that Grunert give a chattel mortgage on the personal property and a second mortgage on the real estate as security for the $1,045 to be paid for the personal property; the same to be evidenced by two promissory notes to be payable in monthly installments of $20 (Tr. 570-571, 604, 629). The Grunerts then accepted and signed the revised offer to purchase the personal property.

All, including "his kids," accepted Potter's utterances and, relying thereon, proceeded to sign the contracts (Tr. 277, 295, 470, 618-619). The Grunerts as well looked to Potter for guidance in the deal, and then and there Pritzkow declared that Potter would look after the interests of both parties (Tr. 186, 246).

On November 6, 1947, Mrs. Pritzkow brought to the petitioner the title policy and deed to their home (Tr. 358-359, 576). The petitioner then ordered a new owner's policy in the sum of $9,150 (Tr. 577).

On November 7, 1947, Grunert applied to Miss Clark at the North Avenue Federal Savings and Loan Association for a V. A. guaranteed loan of $8,150 stating in his application that he was paying $9,150 for the real estate and intended to make a down-payment of $1,000 towards the purchase price (Tr. 12-15, 24-25, 154). His application was approved (Tr. 14).

Miss Clark notified the petitioner that the Savings and Loan Association would give a loan to Grunert for $8,150 (Tr. 14). After petitioner had received the preliminary report of the title policies, he then arranged with Miss Clark and the interested parties to close the deal at the North Avenue Federal Savings and Loan Association on Friday, November 28, 1947 at 2:00 o'clock P. M. (Tr. 579-581).

At Potter's direction, so that Pritzkow would not have to lose time from his job, the papers in the transaction were to be signed on November 27, 1947 (Tr. 58, 608, 642). The petitioner arranged to have the Grunerts and Pritzkows meet in his office on Thanksgiving night, Thursday, November 27, 1947 (Tr. 73-74, 584). At that time Potter agreed to reduce the monthly payments on the personal property to $15 a month (Tr. 629).

On that night, the following papers were signed, to-wit: the deed, second mortgage, chattel mortgage, bill of sale, and the two notes. The closing statements were ready. Potter then directed that the bill of sale list the number of each item of personal property specifically (Tr. 584); and petitioner made the required changes in ink of the bill of sale and chattel mortgage at the dictation of Potter (Tr. 340-341, 584). All of the parties, including Potter, examined the closing statements, and all of the papers were signed as Potter directed (Tr. 75, 85, 151-152, 244, 616). Petitioner handed Potter the signed chattel mortgage and second mortgage; the second mortgage was not to be recorded until the Loan Association's mortgage was first recorded (Tr. 299, 487-488, 586, 613, 635-636). It was also agreed that the Grunerts and Mrs. Pritzkow would meet petitioner at the Loan Association at 2:00 P. M. the following day (Tr. 585).

At the appointed time, Mrs. Pritzkow, Mr. Grunert and petitioner were there (Tr. 586). Mrs. Grunert arrived later. The parties proceeded with the closing of the real estate deal without her (Tr. 586). Petitioner gave Miss Clark a copy of the closing statement as to the real estate. It showed that the selling price was $9,150 (Tr. 16, 19, 42). She got $10.45 for the required revenue stamps which she then pasted on the deed (Tr. 18, 20-21).

At the behest of Miss Clark, Grunert signed a number of required documents and papers and endorsed checks (Tr. 95, 586, 601). After Mrs. Grunert arrived, Miss Clark then had her sign the required documents and papers and endorse checks (Tr. 94-95, 586-587). Mrs. Pritzkow received her money (Tr. 23, 348). Petitioner received the amount of the commission authorized by F. H. A. and left the Grunerts and Mrs. Pritzkow at the office of the Association (Tr. 87, 325).

On or about December 3, 1947, Miss Clark or one of her assistants at the Loan Association completed a form known as a Home Loan Report (identified in the indictment as "V. A. Form 4-1820 February 1946"), which Mr. Grunert had previously signed in blank, and mailed it to the Veterans Administration (Tr. 17, 30-31, 36, 38, 40, 147). The existence and contents of this form was first learned of by the petitioner after his arrest in 1948.

This report was received by the Veterans Administration on December 8, 1947 (Tr. 30, 64).

During the early part of 1948 monthly payments were made by the Grunerts for the personal property purchased by them as aforesaid (Tr. 172, 325, 515-516, 588-589). When payments ceased, Potter commenced a replevin action against the Grunerts on behalf of the Pritzkows to recover the personal property listed in the chattel mortgage (Tr. 361, 385); the Grunerts counter-actioned with a suit enjoining the replevin action and both the aforesaid actions remain presently pending (Tr. 137, 184). Thereafter, and on May 9, 1949, the instant indictment was presented. A trial was had on the indictment before District Judge ROBERT H. TEHAN, a jury having been waived by the defendants. As has been indicated, at the conclusion of the prosecution the indictment was dismissed as to the defendant Potter; at the conclusion of the entire case each of the defendants was found guilty as charged and the defendants, other than petitioner, received suspended sentence and judgment and were placed on probation for 18 months; and, further, at the end of the entire case the trial judge referred the testimony of Potter, offered on behalf of the defendants Pritzkow, to the attention of the District Attorney for prosecution as perjury (Tr. 719, 720).

Specification of Errors

1. It was error for the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to affirm the order of the Trial Court denying petitioner's motion to dismiss the indictment.

2. It was error for the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to affirm the judgment of conviction of the Trial Court.

Summary of Argument

The indictment was laid under the former § 80 of Title 18, which states it to be a felony to make or cause to be made a false certificate in any matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United States, and under the former § 88 of Title 18, which makes it a felony to conspire to commit an offense such as that comprehended within the former § 80. All of the material elements of the crime here charged come as well within a later special statute, § 715 of Title 38 of the United States Code, which defines the acts charged to petitioner to be a misdemeanor subject to lesser maximum penalties than those authorized and imposed upon petitioner herein under former §§ 80 and 88. We think it clear that it was the legislative intent, when the Congress adopted § 715 specifically with respect to the commission of fraud in the filing of the kind of certificate which is here involved, that the penal provisions of § 715 would be exclusively applicable. And we think it unlikely in the extreme that by enacting § 715 Congress intended merely to supply grand jury and prosecutor with a choice of penalties* for the offender of that statute rather than to define precisely and exactly the maximum punishment to be meted out to such a malfeasant. The decisions of this Court and of other Circuits in circumstances substantially identical with those which here obtain have held that a special later statute, as § 715, repeals by implication an earlier general statute, as former § 80, where as here different and inconsistent penalties are provided.

The indictment is also defective with respect to the conspiracy count in failing to allege sufficiently a principal element of the offense charged, i. e., an agreement to cause to be made a certificate which is false and known by the defendants to be false; similarly the indictment is deficient in that the overt acts alleged therein are not acts in pursuance of the charged conspiracy. In both of the foregoing respects the conspiracy count violates the mandate contained in decisions of this Court with respect to conspiracy indictments.

* It was, of course, unnecessary to enact § 715 to authorize a sentencing judge to impose the lesser penalties of § 715 as compared with those of former § 80.

REASONS RELIED ON FOR ALLOWANCE OF WRIT AND ARGUMENT IN SUPPORT

I

The refusal of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to dismiss the indictment and/or reverse the judgment of conviction of the Trial Court on the grounds that the indictment was erroneously returned under former Sections 80 and 88 of Title 18 of the United States Code was in conflict with the decisions of this Court and of the Courts of Appeals of other Circuits.

The alleged acts of the petitioner set out in count II of the indictment constitute an offense under § 715 of Title 38 of the United States Code. The said § 715 applies to "any person who shall knowingly make or cause to be made * * * a false or fraudulent * * * certificate * * * concerning any claim for benefits under" various designated statutory provisions appertaining to the special rights and benefits accorded to veterans. § 715 was expressly incorporated by reference as part of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, by § 697(a) of Title 38 and it was pursuant to the latter Act that the certificate here alleged to be fraudulent was made. Accordingly it has on several occasions been held that acts identical to those alleged to have been committed by petitioner herein are comprehended by and punishable under the provisions of § 715 [Young v. United States, 178 F. 2d 78 (C. A. 9), cert. den., 339 U. S. 913; Karrell v. United States, 181 F. 2d 981 (C. A. 9); United States v. Selph, 82 F. Supp. 56 (S. D. Cal.); United States v. Oakland, 81 F. Supp. 343 (W. D. La.); Young v. Hampton, 36 Cal. 2d 799, 803-806]; indeed, in the light of recent representations by the Veterans Administration and Department of Justice to the Congress concerning the inadequacy of prosecutions under § 715 for offenses such as are here alleged (see 82nd Cong., 1st Sess., S. Rep. 642, H. Rep. 235), we think it will be conceded that the acts here complained of could have been prosecuted under § 715.

We turn then to the question whether the offenses here alleged may be prosecuted only under § 715, or whether it rests in the discretion of the grand jury and prosecuting official to prosecute an offender for a felony under former § 80 of Title 18 or a misdemeanor under § 715.

Neither § 715 nor any other provision in the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, contains an express repeal of the former § 80 of Title 18. If there has been any repeal of the former § 80 by § 715, in whole or in part, such repeal is worked by implication. Such repeal by implication is, of course, a matter of legislative intent. United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86, 95-96; Posadas v. National City Bank, 296 U. S. 497, 503; United States v. Borden Co., 308 U. S. 188, 198; but see United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546, 549; District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18, 27.

The legislative history of § 715 provides no clue to the legislative intent with respect to the foregoing. When the Congress enacted § 715 into law in 1933 there was no discussion concerning the intended scope of § 715 except to indicate that it was intended to carry over the penalty provisions which had theretofore obtained in earlier veterans' legislation (73rd Cong., 1st Sess., 77 C. R. 254, 584). The earlier legislation thus carried forward by § 715 may refer to the provisions in §§ 126, 555, 682, and 688a of Title 38. Each of these sections imposes designated penal sanctions for the making of a fraudulent certificate to procure the benefits accorded to veterans by the general legislation in which those sections are to be found. See also 38 U. S. C. A. § 815. While isolated references to the foregoing provisions may be found in the Congressional hearings, reports, and debates had in connection therewith,* petitioner has been unable to find in the legislative history examined any significant discussion or consideration of the intended repealing effect of the cited sections. There is, however, no such lack to be found in the decisions of this Court and the Courts of Appeals of various Circuits in the definition of the necessary legislative repealing intent of statutes bearing a relationship comparable to that between the former § 80 and § 715. Before examining those cases it will be appropriate to recall that while the material elements of the offense are identical in both § 715 and former § 80, § 715, the more recent of the two statutes, defines the offense therein comprehended as a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both; the former § 80, on the other hand, is definitive of a felony punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than 5 years, or both.

* See, e. g., 68th Cong., 1st Sess., 65 C. R. 10162, 10170, 11013; 68th Cong., 2d Sess., 66 C. R. 5454; Hearings before House World War Veterans Legislation Committee on Proposed Legislation and H. R. 10271, 68th Cong., 2d Sess., pp. 94-95, 100.

 If error was committed in the indictment of petitioner under former § 80 instead of § 715 of Title 38, that error is prejudicial not only with respect to the substantive count of the indictment for which petitioner was penalized in excess of the maximum punishment authorized by § 715, but also in connection with the conspiracy count for if the offense is a misdemeanor only, then punishment for a conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor may not exceed the maximum punishment provided for such misdemeanor. 18 U. S. C. A. § 371; see also Moscowitz, "Trial of a Criminal Case in the Federal Court," 3 F. R. D. 380, 392-393.

The starting point of any discussion of the effect of § 715 upon the former § 80 is United States v. Tynen, 78 U. S. (11 Wall.) 88. There an earlier statute declared to be a felony the act of falsely making and using a certificate of citizenship and provided as punishment for the offense imprisonment of not less than three nor more than five years or a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000; a later statute condemning like fraudulent actions, together with other acts of a fraudulent character in connection with naturalization, declared such acts to be criminal and punishable by fine of between $300 and $1,000 and/or imprisonment of between one and five years. Mr. Justice FIELD thereupon set out the classic formula for ascertaining whether a repeal by implication has been worked:

> "There is no express repeal of the 13th section of the act of 1813 declared by the act of 1870, and it is a familiar doctrine that repeals by implication are not favored. When there are two acts on the same subject the rule is to give effect to both if possible. But if the two are repugnant in any of their provisions, the latter act, without any repealing clause, operates to the extent of the repugnancy as a repeal of the first; and even where two acts are not in express terms repugnant, yet if the latter act covers the whole subject of the first, and embraces new provisions, plainly showing that it was intended as a substitute for the first act, it will operate as a repeal of that act" (78 U. S., 92).

Thereafter it was concluded that there was such repugnancy between the two statutes and that the latter repealed by implication the former for the following reasons:

> "Now, between the provisions of the act of 1813 and the act of 1870 there is a clear repugnancy. The first act makes the punishment for the offenses designated imprisonment or fine. It provides that the punishment shall be one or the other, and in so doing declares that it shall not be both. The second act allows both punishments in the discretion of the court; it thus permits what the first law prohibits.

Again, the act of 1813 provides that the imprisonment, when imposed as a punishment, shall not be less than three years, and may be extended to five. The act of 1879 allows the imprisonment to be fixed at one year, and from that period upwards to five years. In this also it permits what the first act forbids.

Again, the act of 1913 declares that the fine, when imposed, shall not be less than $500. The act of 1870 allows the fine to be as low as $300, thus authorizing what the first act declares shall not be done" (78 U. S., 92-3).

The foregoing criteria employed by this Court in United States v. Tynen have again and again been employed in instances where it was found that a latter statute, because similarly repugnant to provisions of a former statute, repealed such former statute by implication. Murdock v. Memphis, 87 U. S. (20 Wall.) 590; United States v. Claflin, supra; King v. Cornell, 106 U. S. 395; Pana v. Bowler, 107 U. S. 529; United States v. Fisher, 109 U. S. 143; United States v. Auffmordt, 122 U. S. 197; Tracy v. Tuffly, 134 U. S. 206; District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18; Henrietta Mining & M. Co. v. Gardner, 173 U. S. 123; The Paquete Habana, 175 U. S. 677; Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95; Chase v. United States, 256 U. S. 1; United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450.

It will be immediately appreciated that as in United States v. Tynen, supra, there is here a repugnancy between § 715 and the former § 80: here, as there, one statute permits the imposition of a fine in excess of the maximum fine allowed under the other statute; and, further, here, as there, one statute permits the imposition of a sentence of imprisonment in excess of the maximum imprisonment allowed under the other. If it be thought that United States v. Tynen is distinguishable because here the latter statute provides for a lesser penalty while in United States v. Tynen the latter statute provided for a greater penalty, then it should be noted that in the decision of Mr. Justice FIELD, the following appears:

> "In Rex v. Davis [1 Leach (C.C.) 271] it appeared that there were two statutes against killing deer in an inclosed park. The first statute made the offense a felony punishable with death. The last statute punished the first offense with a fine, and made the second offense a felony; and the twelve judges were unanimously of opinion that the last statute amounted to a repeal of so much of the first as related to the offense of felony" (78 U. S., 93-94).

Moreover, this Court has held repugnant to a former statute a later statute which provided, in part at least, a lesser penalty for the same offense. Thus in United States v. Auffmordt, 122 U. S. 197, 209, it was said:

> "The latter section * * * leaves out a forfeiture of the value of the merchandise, and forfeiture of such value is inconsistent with the terms of § 12, and is, therefore, repealed by it. The absolute forfeiture of the merchandise, provided for by § 12, is inconsistent, also, with the alternative forfeiture of the merchandise or its value, provided for by § 2864. The provisions of the two statutes cannot stand together."

See also United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450, quoted and discussed infra at page 26.

Similarly, numerous Circuits have held an earlier general penal statute repealed by implication by a latter special penal statute with respect to acts comprehended by both statutes—and this in instances where the latter statute provided for a lesser penalty. In Wechsler v. United States, 158 F. 579 (C. A. 2), the question was whether the giving of false testimony in a bankruptcy proceeding was an offense under the earlier general federal perjury statute, prescribing imprisonment for not more than five years, or punishable as an offense under a special provision of the later bankruptcy act appertaining to such cases which carried with it a lesser penalty. The Court held the later statute to repeal by implication the former:

> "We have then an offense covered by two penal sections; the earlier imposing the heavier sentence. How shall they be construed? The earlier statute is most comprehensive. It covers oral and written false statements when sworn to before any competent tribunal, officer, or person in any case in which a law of the United States authorizes an oath to be administered. The later statute covers such statements only when made in, or in relation to, any proceeding in bankruptcy. The principle of construction to be applied, unless there are some special considerations which prevent such application, is too well settled to require the citation of authorities. The later special statute operates to restrict the effect of the general act from which it differs. The two sections may be construed together as providing a stated penalty for the crime of false swearing generally, with the proviso that, when such false swearing occurs in a bankruptcy proceeding, the offender, upon conviction, shall be subjected to a different penalty. * * *
>
> "It is suggested that we are not to conclude that Congress could have intended to reduce the punishment of persons who made false oaths in bankruptcy proceedings below that prescribed for others who made such oaths elsewhere, since all false oaths are morally wrong. The relative adjustment of punishments is, however, one wholly for the regulation of Congress, and this is not the first instance in which that body has introduced similar discriminations into the statutory penal law. The making > of a false oath in applying for a pension would be within the provisions of section 5392, but it is specially provided in section 4746 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3279] that for that offense the punishment shall be imprisonment not more than three years or a fine not to exceed $500, or both. So, too, the making of a false affidavit on making an entry of imported merchandise would be perjury under section 5392, but by section 9 of the customs administrative act of 1890 (Act of June 10, 1890, c. 407, 26 Stat. 135 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1895]), the maximum penalty for such offense is two years' imprisonment or a fine of $5,000, or both. In like manner section 5395, Rev. St. U. S. [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3654], provides that where an oath or affidavit is made or taken under or by virtue of any law in relation to the naturalization of aliens, or in any proceeding under such laws, any person taking such oath or affidavit who knowingly swears falsely shall be punished by imprisonment of not more than five years or less than one year, and by a fine of not more than 1,000'' (158 F., 581, 582).

The decision of the Second Circuit in Wechsler v. United States has been followed by the Sixth Circuit (Ulmer v. United States, 219 F. 641, 647-648), and the Eighth Circuit (Rosenthal v. United States, 248 F. 684); it was adhered to by the Second Circuit as late as 1945 (Morris Plan Indus. B. v. Finn, 149 F. 2d 591, 592) and has, indeed, been codified by the new § 1621 of Title 18 which prescribes as punishment for perjury a fine of not more than $2,000 and/or imprisonment for not more than five years "except as otherwise expressly provided by law".

The same doctrine has been followed by the Second Circuit in bribery prosecutions, viz.: Curione v. United States, 11 F. 2d 471, 472. It was there held:

> "Curione was proven as guilty of transgressing this statute as he was of violating section 39. The Tariff Act declares an offense under it to be a misdemeanor, while bribery, under section 39, is a felony by section 335 (Comp. St. § 10509); further, the punishment under section 39 may be, and in this instance was, greater than that imposed by the Tariff Act. Curione was sentenced under section 39.

We think it plain that, even without laying any weight on the usual repealer contained in the Tariff Act (section 644 [Comp. St. Ann. Supp. 1923, § 5841i3]), that statute has repealed the general bribery section, so far as the actual or attempted corruption of customs officials is concerned, by the means and for the purposes described in section 601. United States v. Tynen, 11 Wall. 88, 20 L. Ed. 153."

As Judge ROGERS declared for the Second Circuit in Maresca v. United States, 277 F. 727, 728, cert. den., 257 U. S. 657:

> "There cannot be two different penalties for the same offense. The rule is well settled that, where a statute prohibits a particular act, and imposes a penalty for doing it, and a subsequent statute imposes a different penalty for the same offense, the latter statute operates by way of substitution and repeals the former, and this whether the penalty is increased or diminished."

Accord:

> Bruno v. United States, 289 F. 649 (C. A. 1);
> Farley v. United States, 269 F. 721 (C. A. 9).

We think that it should be noted, too, that in those cases where prosecution, for acts of which petitioner is here accused, was laid under § 715, it was indicated that that section is exclusive in operation of the former § 80. In United States v. Oakland, 81 F. Supp. 343, 344 (W. D. La.), it was said of § 715:

> "Whatever may be said as to other offenses under the Act of June 22, 1944, a false statement of the character charged in the bill clearly falls under and only under the last quoted statute, which, in effect, is made part of the said World War II Veterans Act of June 22, 1944."

And similarly in Karrell v. United States, 181 F. 2d 981 (C. A. 9), and United States v. Selph, 82 F. Supp. 56 (S. D. Cal.), reference is made to the special provisions of § 715 which make that section peculiarly and exclusively applicable to the offense here charged.

The foregoing uniform line of cases with which the decision of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit is plainly and irrevocably in conflict is not affected by the decision of this Court in United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86, cited and relied upon by the court below. For in that case the alleged conflict was between the former § 80 and § 715(e) of Title 15 which latter statute provides generally for the punishment of the violation of any provision of the "Hot Oil" Act. Clearly such a statute, not expressly or directly aimed at punishment of the making of a fraudulent certificate, works no partial or other repeal of the general fraud statute which is the former § 80. Moreover, the legislative history of the former § 80 set out by the then Chief Justice HUGHES in United States v. Gilliland, supra, was overwhelmingly to the effect that the Congress intended in its amendment to the former § 80 in 1934 to comprehend within that section precisely the kind of offense for which the prosecution was there brought.

It is suggested, however, by the court below that § 715 by its terms, is intended to be non-exclusive. For this proposition reference is made to the language in § 715 which states that the offender, "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor . . .". Petitioner respectfully submits that any construction of § 715 which imports into that section by the foregoing language the former § 80 is not permissible. For the term "in addition" is literally and in the context of § 715 cumulative. It does not mean that the offender is guilty in the alternative, of a misdemeanor and may be punished for such offense "or for any and all other penalties"; it says and means that he shall be punishable for a misdemeanor and shall suffer the punishment therefor "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law". That the language "in addition" is intended to be cumulative is conclusively demonstrated by the recent amendment to the Servicemen's Readjustment Act wherein it is provided that treble damages may be recovered for any overcharge and "the remedy provided in this section shall be in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law" (Public Law 142, 82nd Cong., 1st Sess.). The remedy thus added to the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, is cumulative to the other remedies therein provided, not an alternative to those remedies, and the Congress thereby indicated that when it used the term "in addition" in the Servicemen's Readjustment Act it intended a remedy or penalty cumulative to other existing remedies or penalties.

Of course, it will hardly be contended that it was the intent of Congress to make an offense defined under § 715 punishable cumulatively as a felony under former § 80 and as a misdemeanor under § 715. Much more likely is the intention of the Congress to impose a softer, lighter, penalty for fraud within the framework of a statutory pattern established for the alleviation of the veteran subject to the provisions of § 715. Moreover, if the cognate provisions of §§ 711-716 of Title 38 be examined it becomes abundantly clear what the Congress meant when it created a misdemeanor for fraud "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law". Those other sections define other offenses, such as perjury (§ 712), fraudulent receipt of benefits (§§ 713 and 714), and embezzlement (§ 716), in connection with the administration of veterans' benefits and prescribe designated penalties for each such offense. The punishment under each of these provisions other than § 715 is fine and/or imprisonment; only in § 715 is it expressly provided that the veteran is also deprived of rights and benefits as a veteran; and only in § 715 does there appear the clause "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law". Similarly, in those other sections specially penalizing the making or using of a false certificate to procure veteran-benefits, the clause "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law" will be found where, as in § 715, provision is also made for the loss of such benefits (38 U. S. C. A. § 555) and the clause is absent where no provision is made therein for loss of such benefits (38 U. S. C. A. §§ 126, 682, 688a, 815). Petitioner submits that the foregoing statutory pattern explains the unique language in § 715—the clause "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law" is intended to mean that the offender of § 715 is subject to penalties for the commission of a misdemeanor in addition to the loss of benefits as may be provided in § 715 or any other section of the law.

If any decision of this Court is required to demonstrate the plain error in considering that the clause "in addition", etc., saves the former § 80 from the repealing effect of § 715, that authority is supplied by United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450. See also District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18. In the Yuginovich case an earlier statute (referred to in the opinion as § 3257) made it a crime to defraud or attempt to defraud the United States of a tax upon spirits distilled by one carrying on the business of a distillery, and imposed a penalty therefor of a fine of not less than $500 or more than $5,000 and imprisonment of not less than six months or more than one year; the later Volstead Act (referred to in the opinion as § 35) imposed a tax upon the illegal manufacture of spirits in an amount double that provided by law with an additional penalty of $500 on retail dealers and $1,000 on manufacturers. In writing for the Court Mr. Justice Day held:

"The question remains concerning the applicability of § 3257, involving the right to punish for attempting to defraud the United States of a tax, Did Congress intend to punish such violation of law by imposing the old penalty denounced in § 3257 or as provided in the new and special provision enacted in the Volstead Act?

It is the contention of the government that § 35 saves the right to prosecute as to taxes, as well as the acts charged as violative of the other sections of the Revised Statutes, because of the phrase with which the section concludes: '. . . nor shall this act relieve any person from any liability, civil or criminal, heretofore or hereafter incurred under existing laws.'

It is, of course, settled that repeals by implication are not favored. It is equally well settled that a later statute repeals former ones when clearly inconsistent with the earlier enactments. United States v. Tynen, 11 Wall. 88. In construing penal statutes, it is the rule that later enactments repeal former ones practically covering the same acts but fixing a lesser penalty. The concluding phrase of § 35 by itself considered is strongly indicative of an intention to retain the old laws. But this section must be interpreted in view of the constitutional provision contained in the 18th Amendment and in view of the provisions of the Volstead Act intended to make that Amendment effective.

Having in mind these principles and considering now the first count of the indictment charging an attempt to defraud and actually defrauding the Government of the revenue tax, we do not believe that the general language used at the close of § 35 evidences the intention of Congress to inflict for such an offense the punishment provided in § 3257 with the resulting forfeiture, fine, and imprisonment, and at the same time to authorize prosecution and punishment under § 35 enacting lesser and special penalties for failing to pay such taxes by imposing a tax in double the amount provided by law, with an additional penalty of $500 on retailers and $1,000 on manufacturers" (256 U. S., 462-463).

Petitioner thinks it clear almost beyond dispute that in the light of the foregong authorities the decision of the Court below is in irreconcilable conflict with the holdings of this Court and those of other Courts of Appeals. Petitioner is, however, aware of the injunction by this Court that certiorari will not issue solely because error has been committed—even if, as here, the error is prejudicial. Mr. Chief Justice Vinson advised the practitioners before this Court, in his address to the American Bar Association on September 7, 1949 (70 Sup. Ct. Adv. XII, XIV), that for certiorari to be granted the questions involved must have importance "beyond the particular facts and parties involved". We submit that the issue under the instant heading is such a question. For there is involved not only the rule of law to be applied in the numerous prosecutions which have arisen out of the sale of realty to veterans who have procured Veterans Administration guarantees of bank loans, but in addition there is here involved the broader question of the effect to be accorded the various special statutory provisions for punishment in designated contexts of offenses comprehended within earlier, general penal statutes (see, e. g., 18 U. S. C. A., chap. 11, 15, 47). Such questions, we submit, are of a breath and genre sufficient to invoke consideration and decision by this Court.

II

The decision of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirming the judgment of conviction by the Trial Court and refusal of the Trial Court to dismiss Count I of the indictment on the grounds that it fails to allege sufficiently the elements of an offense was error and in conflict with the decision of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in Hamner v. United States, 134 F. 2d 592.

Count I of the indictment purports to allege a conspiracy to commit the offense against the United States proscribed by the former § 80 of Title 18. It is, of course, elementary as well as provided by statute that the gist of a conspiracy charge is an agreement "to commit . . . [an] offense against the United States" (18 U. S. C. A. § 371). It is therefore encumbent upon the pleader to allege clearly and unambiguously an agreement to commit acts which constitute an offense. Here the pleader alleges in a conclusory form an agreement to cause the making and use of a false certificate; he then proceeds to allege an agreement to cause the Loan Association to certify to the Veterans Administration that the Pritzkows' property was being sold to the Grunerts for $9,150 and thereafter, instead of alleging any agreement or conspiracy with respect to the falsity of said certificate, recites that the parties knew the certificate to be "fraudulent and fictitious" and effected overpayment "by a trick, scheme, and device".

Petitioner submits that an indictment thus drafted is insufficient under the authority of Hamner v. United States, 134 F. 2d 592 (C. A. 5). There too the indictment in a conclusory fashion alleged a conspiracy to defraud and followed this allegation with a recitation of acts of wrongdoing by the defendants instead of any specific agreement to perform the offending acts. The Court held the indictment defective, stating:

> "Confused allegations of what the defendants did are by a sort of inference sought to be made allegations of what they conspired to do, as respect sales of tires without rationing certificates. The next sentence beginning: 'And the Grand Jurors aforesaid do further charge and present, that in the acquisition of new tires and tubes the defendants made and caused to be made false and fraudulent and fictitious bills, receipts and vouchers', takes an entirely fresh start, and charges another substantive offense rather than any sort of conspiracy. Now the gist of the charge of conspiracy is the agreement to commit an offense against or a fraud on the United States. An overt act must be done pursuant to the agreement before, under 18 U. S. C. A. § 88, the crime is complete, but its essence lies in the agreement. That agreement must be distinctly and directly alleged. Inference and implication will not, on demurrer, suffice. Aid cannot be sought in the allegations of what was done in pursuance of it. 15 C. J. S., Conspiracy, § 82; 11 Am. Jur., Conspiracy, Sect. 29; Joplin Mercantile Co. v. United States, 236 U. S. 531, 35 S. Ct. 291, 59 L. Ed. 705; United States v. Britton, 108 U. S. 199, 2 S. Ct. 531, 27 L. Ed. 698. In the present case it is alleged generally that the defendants conspired to commit offenses and frauds, but it is not alleged what frauds were agreed to be committed. The pleader thenceforth alleges only what was done. What was done is often good evidence of what was agreed to be done, but to allege such evidence is not an allowable substitute for a clear statement of the agreement which is proposed to be proven" (134 F. 2d, 595).

III

The decision of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirming the judgment of conviction by the Trial Court and the refusal of the Trial Court to dismiss Count I of the indictment on the grounds that the indictment was insufficient for failing to charge overt acts pursuant to the alleged conspiracy is in conflict with the decisions of this Court.

§ 371 of Title 18 specifies that an element of the crime of conspiracy is the performance of an "act to effect the object of the conspiracy". This requirement is identical with the "overt act" requirement specified in the decisions of this Court, i.e., that there must be alleged in the indictment and proven overt acts in pursuance of and for the purpose of effectuating the conspiracy. Hyde v. Shine, 199 U. S. 62; United States v. Hirsch, 100 U. S. 33; Hyde v. United States, 225 U. S. 347.

The indictment here and the overt acts charged therein are insufficient under the foregoing criteria of this Court. Neither the act of petitioner in receiving a deposit of earnest money (overt act I), or in demanding and receiving additional down-payment (overt act II), or in signing as a witness and taking the acknowledgments as a notary on the bill of sale (overt act VI), or in being the scrivener of the chattle mortgage of the "personal property" (overt act VII), in any way supports the conspiracy charged of either causing a false certificate or concealing a material fact by trick, scheme or device, or both.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner prays that a writ of certiorari issue to the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to review its judgment and that upon such review the judgment be reversed.

LOUIS B. ADERMAN
Petitioner

O. JOHN ROGGE
MURRAY A. GORDON
Attorneys for Petitioner

Of Counsel:
ROGGE, FABRICANT & GORDON

[APPENDIX FOLLOWS]

APPENDIX

1. Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, Title VI, § 1500, 58 Stat. 300, 38 U. S. C. A. § 697 (a):

> "Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the administrative, definitive, and penal provisions under sections 30a and 485 of Title 5 and sections 701-703, 704, 705, 706, 707-710, 712-715, 717, 718, 720, and 721 of this title, and the provisions of sections 450, 451, 454a and 556a of this title, shall be for application under this chapter."

2. Act of March 20, 1933, c. 3, Title I, § 15, 48 Stat. 11, 38 U. S. C. A. § 715:

> "Any person who shall knowingly make or cause to be made, or conspire, combine, aid or assist in, agree to, arrange for, or in any wise procure the making or presentation of a false or fraudulent affidavit, declaration, certificate, statement, voucher, or paper, or writing purporting to be such, concerning any claim for benefits under sections 701-703, 704, 705, 706, 707-715, 716-721 of this title, and sections 30a, 485 of Title 5, shall forfeit all rights, claims, and benefits under such sections, and, in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both."

3. 18 U. S. C. A. § 287, formerly part of 18 U. S. C. A. § 80:

> "Whoever makes or presents to any person or officer in the civil, military, or naval service of the United States, or to any department or agency thereof, any claim upon or against the United States, or any department or agency thereof, knowing such claim to be false, fictitious, or fraudulent, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

4. 18 U. S. C. A. § 1001, formerly part of 18 U. S. C. A. § 80:

> "Whoever, in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States knowingly and willfully falsifies, conceals or covers up by any trick, scheme, or device a material fact, or makes any false, fictitious or fraudulent statements or representations, or makes or uses any false writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or entry, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

5. 18 U. S. C. A. § 371, formerly 18 U. S. C. A. § 88, as revised:

> "If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States, or any agency thereof in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such persons do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both. If, however, the offense, the commission of which is the object of the conspiracy, is a misdemeanor only, the punishment for such conspiracy shall not exceed the maximum punishment provided for such misdemeanor."

INDEX

	Page
Opinion below	1
Jurisdiction	1
Questions presented	2
Statutes involved	2
Statement	5
Argument	7
Conclusion	18

CITATIONS

Cases:
Chase v. United States, 256 U. S. 1	15
Crabb v. Zerbst, 99 F. 2d 562	11
District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18	15
Henrietta Mining & M. Co. v. Gardner, 173 U. S. 123	15
King v. Cornell, 106 U. S. 395	15
Murdock v. Memphis, 20 Wall. 590	15
Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95	15
Pana v. Bowler, 107 U. S. 529	15
The Paquette Habana, 175 U. S. 677	15
Tracy v. Tuffly, 134 U. S. 206	15
United States v. Auffmordt, 122 U. S. 197	15
United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546	15
United States v. Fisher, 109 U. S. 143	15
United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86	8, 9
United States v. Stafoff, 260 U. S. 477	14
United States v. Tynen, 11 Wall. 88	14
United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450	11, 12, 14
Statutes:
Act of March 20, 1933, c. 3, Title I, Sec. 15, 48 Stat. 8, 11, 38 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 715	4, 8
Act of June 25, 1948, Sec. 21, 62 Stat. 683, 862	3
Criminal Code:
Sec. 35 (A), 18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 80	2, 8
Sec. 37, 18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 88	3, 8
"Hot Oil" Act of February 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 30, 31	8, 9
National Prohibition Act, Title II, Sec. 35, 41 Stat. 305, 317	12
Servicemen's Readjustment Act of June 22, 1944, c. 268, Title VI, Sec. 1500, 58 Stat. 284, 300	4, 8
Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, Sec. 503A, Pub. Law 142, 82nd Cong., 1st sess.	11

	Page
Supplementary Prohibition Act of November 23, 1921, c. 134, Sec. 5, 42 Stat. 222, 223	14
18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 724, now 18 U. S. C. 3651	8
18 U. S. C., Supp. IV, 287	3, 11
18 U. S. C., Supp. IV, 371	3, 8, 11
18 U. S. C., Supp. IV, 1001	3, 11
Miscellaneous:
S. Rep. No. 642, 82nd Cong., 1st sess., p. 3	10
U. S. C. Cong. Service, 82nd Cong., 1st sess., p. 2358	11

In the Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM, 1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN, PETITIONER

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

BRIEF FOR THE UNITED STATES IN OPPOSITION

OPINION BELOW

The opinion of the Court of Appeals (R. 30, pp. 1–8 [1]) is reported at 191 F. 2d 980.

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Court of Appeals was entered on October 23, 1951 (R. 31). On November

[1] Petitioner has requested leave of this Court to dispense with printing of the record and to proceed upon the original typewritten record filed in the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and the original documents reflecting the proceedings had therein. The record now on file with this Court is numbered by document rather than by individual pages (e. g., the transcript of testimony in the District Court appears as R. 7, and consists of 728 pages). Hence, the reference to the opinion of the Court of Appeals as R. 30, pp. 1–8.

13, 1951, the time for filing a petition for a writ of certiorari was extended by order of Mr. Justice Minton to and including December 10, 1951, and the petition was filed on that date. The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under 28 U. S. C. 1254 (1). See also Rules 37 (b) (2) and 45 (a), F. R. Crim. P.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether Sections 35 (A) and 37 of the Criminal Code, penalizing, inter alia, the causing of a false certificate to be filed with a Government agency, and a conspiracy to cause such filing, were impliedly repealed pro tanto by 1933 and 1944 enactments penalizing false statements and conspiracies in transactions with the Veterans' Administration and imposing, "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law", a fine and/or sentence of imprisonment less than those imposed by Sections 35 (A) and 37.

2. Whether the indictment failed to charge that the conspiracy included an intent to cause the filing of the false certificate, knowing it to be false.

3. Whether the overt acts charged in the indictment were acts in pursuance of the conspiracy.

STATUTES INVOLVED

Section 35 (A) of the Criminal Code, 18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 80, provided in pertinent part:

> Whoever shall * * * knowingly and willfully falsify or conceal or cover up by any trick, scheme, or device a material > fact, or * * * cause to be made any false or fraudulent statements or representations, or * * * cause to be made or used any false bill, receipt, voucher, roll, account, claim, certificate, affidavit, or deposition, knowing the same to contain any fraudulent or fictitious statement or entry in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States or of any corporation in which the United States of America is a stockholder, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both.

Section 37 of the Criminal Code, 18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 88, provided:

> If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each of the parties to such conspiracy shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.[2]

---

[2] Sections 35 (A) and 37 of the Criminal Code were repealed, effective September 1, 1948, by Section 21 of the Act of June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 683, 862, which revised and enacted into positive law Title 18 of the United States Code. The offenses alleged in the indictment were committed before the repeal. Section 21 of the codifying Act provides that any rights or liabilities existing under the repealed sections shall not be affected by the repeal.

Provisions substantially similar to those which appeared in the above portions of Sections 35 (A) and 37 now appear in 18 U. S. C., Supp. IV, 287, 371, and 1001.

The Servicemen's Readjustment Act of June 22, 1944, c. 268, Title VI, § 1500, 58 Stat. 284, 300, 38 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 697, provided in pertinent part as follows:

> Except as otherwise provided in this Act, the administrative, definitive, and penal provisions under Public, Numbered 2, Seventy-third Congress, as amended, and the provisions of Public, Numbered 262, Seventy-fourth Congress, as amended (38 U. S. C. 450, 451, 454a and 556a), shall be for application under this Act. * * *

The Act of March 20, 1933, c. 3, Title I, § 15, 48 Stat. 8, 11, 38 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 715, provided as follows:

> Any person who shall knowingly make or cause to be made, or conspire, combine, aid, or assist in, agree to, arrange for, or in any wise procure the making or presentation of a false or fraudulent affidavit, declaration, certificate, statement, voucher, or paper, or writing purporting to be such, concerning any claim for benefits under this title, shall forfeit all rights, claims, and benefits under this title, and, in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

STATEMENT

The petition for a writ of certiorari seeks review of a judgment of the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit (R. 31) unanimously affirming a judgment of the District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin (R. 7, p. 718) finding petitioner guilty of violations of Sections 35 (A) and 37 of the Criminal Code, as charged in a two-count indictment.

The first count (R. 1, pp. 1–5) charged that, commencing October 30, 1947, and continuing to December 8, 1947, petitioner and the other defendants (Potter, Norton Pritzkow and Rosemarie Pritzkow) conspired to cause the North Avenue Federal and Savings and Loan Association of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to make a false certificate, known to the defendants to contain fictitious statements, in a matter within the jurisdiction of the Veterans' Administration of the United States, for the purpose of inducing the Veterans' Administration to guarantee a loan to one John R. Grunert, Jr.; i. e., that the defendants conspired to cause the Loan Association to certify to the Veterans' Administration that a lot and house was being sold to Grunert by the Pritzkows for a total cost of $9,150, the reasonable value thereof as determined by a proper appraisal, whereas they knew that the total price to be paid was $10,195, the overpayment being accomplished by the device of obtaining from Grunert a note and chattel mortgage upon certain items which were a part of the home, such as the kitchen sink and cabinets and the furnace (R. 1, pp. 1–2).

The first count further charged that the following overt acts were committed to effectuate the conspiracy: petitioner "demanded and received" $100 as earnest money on November 4, 1947, and $900 as an additional down payment on November 5, 1947, upon Grunert's offer "to purchase said home for the sum of $9,150," petitioner in each case giving a receipt (R. 1, p. 3); the Pritzkows on November 5, 1947, signed an acceptance of Grunert's offer "to purchase said home for the sum of $9,150," and an acceptance of his offer "to purchase 'venetian blinds, screens, storm doors, sash, kitchen cabinets, gas unit' situated in the home being purchased, for the sum of $1,045.00, and to give as security a second mortgage on the said real estate and a chattel mortgage on the items described"; the Pritzkows on November 28, 1947, "demanded and received" from Grunert a promissory note for $1,045, and executed a bill of sale to Grunert for the various items in the home, petitioner and Potter acting as witnesses to the bill of sale, and petitioner acting as Notary Public; on the same date the Pritzkows "demanded and received" from Grunert a chattel mortgage upon those items, petitioner and Potter acting as witnesses and petitioner also acting as Notary Public (R. 1, pp. 4–5).

The second count (R. 1, pp. 5–7) charged the substantive offense of causing the Loan Association to make the false certificate.

The defendants waived a jury trial (R. 7, p. 1). The District Court dismissed as to Potter at the close of the Government's case (R. 7, p. 258), and found petitioner and the Pritzkows guilty on both counts. It suspended sentence on the Pritzkows and placed them on probation for 18 months. Petitioner was fined $5,000 on the first count and on the second the court suspended sentence and placed him on probation for two years. (R. 7, pp. 718–719; R. 17, 18, pp. 18–20.) Only petitioner appealed.

ARGUMENT

1. Petitioner does not question the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the judgment.[3] His first contention is that the action should have been prose-

[3] The Court of Appeals said (R. 30, p. 5):

"It is clear from the record in this case that the parties engaged in a plan to evade the requirements of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act and that as a necessary part of that plan they caused the making of a false and fraudulent certificate for use in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United States. Appellant had had previous experience with deals financed under it and knew that the loans would only be guaranteed if the total purchase price did not exceed the appraised value. It was he who suggested the plan of a separate purchase of personal property, the items of which in fact had been included in both of Grunert's written offers to purchase. His commission of $485.50 was computed on the basis of the $9,710, the sales price permitted by the FHA which was in excess of the $9,150 appraised by the VA."

cuted under Section 15 of the Act of March 20, 1933, which was made applicable under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (supra, p. 4), rather than under Sections 35 (A) and 37 of the Criminal Code, on the ground that Section 15 impliedly repealed Sections 35 (A) and 37 by reason of its fixing of lesser penalties.[4] This Court rejected a similar contention, directed to the same Section 35 (A), in United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86. There, as here, it was contended, inter alia, that indictments charging false reports, in that case under regulations authorized by the "Hot Oil" Act (February [4] Petitioner was not sentenced to imprisonment. The suspension of imposition of sentence and imposition, instead, of two years' probation on count two, the substantive count, was within the court's authority whether the offense was prosecuted under Section 35 (A) of the Criminal Code or Section 15 of the 1933 Act. See 18 U. S. C. (1946 ed.) 724; now 18 U. S. C. 3651. Petitioner is therefore in error in stating (Pet. 17 fn. 2) that the penalty imposed on the second count exceeded the maximum under Section 15. Unless and until the probation is revoked, there is no occasion to consider whether a sentence of imprisonment should exceed one year, the maximum under Section 15. The fine of $5,000 on the conspiracy count exceeded the maximum ($1,000) under Section 15, but was one-half of the maximum under Section 37 of the Criminal Code. Petitioner is in error in stating (ibid.) that the penalty for the conspiracy under the general conspiracy statute (Crim. Code, § 37; now 18 U. S. C. 371) could not exceed the penalty for a misdemeanor. Although that is the law now under Section 371, it was not the law prior to the 1948 revision, when these offenses were committed. However, Section 15 of the 1933 Act covered conspiracies as well as substantive offenses and, as we have stated, the maximum fine under that section is $1,000.

22, 1935, 49 Stat. 30, 31), were not properly brought under the more general Section 35 (A). This Court stated (312 U. S. at 91, 95–96):

> * * * This contention is sought to be supported * * * by reference to the incongruity of the penalty prescribed for violation of § 35 as contrasted with the penalty prescribed by the Act of February 22, 1935, to the enforcement of which the requirements in question were directed. Defendant also presents the contention, upon which the District Court did not pass, that the Act of February 22, 1935, was intended to cover the entire subject of the exclusion of "hot oil" from interstate commerce and consequently operated as a repeal of all other provisions dealing with that matter.
>
> * * * * *
>
> * * * There was no express repeal and there was no repugnancy in the subject matter of the two statutes which would justify an implication of repeal. The Act of 1934, with its provision as to false and fraudulent papers, has its place as a fitting complement to the Act of 1935 as well as to other statutes under which, in connection with the authorized action of governmental departments or agencies, the presentation of affidavits, documents, etc., is required. There is no indication of an intent to make the Act of 1935 a substitute for any part of the provision in § 35. See Posadas v. National City Bank, 296 U. S.

497, 503, 504; United States v. Borden Company, 308 U. S. 188, 198, 199.

It should also be noted that the enactment, upon which petitioner relies for repeal of the Criminal Code provisions, itself contains a specific provision that the granted remedies of forfeiture of certain rights and benefits and of punishment as for a misdemeanor shall be "in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law" (see p. 4, supra). This provision is so devoid of any ambiguity as to make unnecessary any further, more remote exploration of legislative intent, but there are supporting elements of legislative history. When Congress was asked to amend the Servicemen's Readjustment Act in 1950 and 1951 to provide a treble-damage action (new Section 503A) against any seller receiving side payments above the price determined by proper appraisal, the Congress was clearly advised that:

> several criminal prosecutions under [Section 15] have been brought against sellers who received from veterans more than the appraised reasonable value on the theory that they caused to be presented to the Veterans' Administration false statements concerning a claim for benefits. It is understood that a number of such sellers have also been prosecuted under section 80, title 18, United States Code, the general false claim statute * * * [italics supplied]. [Senate Report No. 642, 82nd Cong., 1st sess., p. 3.]

The requested additional Section 503A was enacted on September 13, 1951 (Pub. Law 142, 82nd Cong., 1st sess., enacting H. R. 319), and the Congress not only made no reductions in the broad authority under the former Sections 35(A) and 37 (now 18 U. S. C. 287, 371, 1001), but enacted the requested caveat for Section 503A: "The remedy provided in this section shall be in addition to any and all other penalties imposed by law." U. S. C. Cong. Service, 82nd Cong., 1st sess., p. 2358.

The Congress has further demonstrated its intent that the former portions of the Criminal Code stand concurrently with Section 15 of the 1933 Act, and not in exclusion of it, for it reenacted these portions in 1948 as 18 U. S. C. 287, 371, and 1001. Thus, the sections here relied upon would have been the later, repealing statutes after 1948 were petitioner's contention to be accepted to the effect that the various provisions are so inconsistent as to involve a repeal. Cf. Crabb v. Zerbst, 99 F. 2d 562, 563–564 (C.A.5).

In seeking to imply a repeal despite the specific language preserving other remedies, petitioner relies principally upon the earlier case of United States v. Yuginovich, 256 U. S. 450. It is true that in that case the later of the two enactments contained a provision that the enactment should not relieve any person from any civil or criminal liability thereafter incurred under existing laws and it is also true that this Court nevertheless implied a repeal of the earlier penal enactment, but the decision was based upon a situation not remotely present here. In Yuginovich the earlier penalties were imposed, inter alia, upon a failure to pay taxes upon dealings in liquor and when the later enactment, pursuant to the 18th Amendment, prohibited such dealings, the old system of collecting taxes on beverage liquor, under all the circumstances there involved, could be interpreted to have been eliminated with the dealings, and to have been fully supplanted by the later, specific provision. The former system of advance payment of taxes was prohibited by the later enactment, and upon evidence of illegal dealings a tax was to be assessed retroactively in double the amount then provided, plus specific penalties.[5] It is in the light of such enactments that this Court stated (pp. 463–464):

[5] The text of the later enactment (National Prohibition Act, Title II, § 35, 41 Stat. 305, 317) provided in pertinent part as follows:

"All provisions of law that are inconsistent with this Act are repealed only to the extent of such inconsistency and the regulations herein provided for the manufacture or traffic in intoxicating liquor shall be construed as in addition to existing laws. This Act shall not relieve anyone from paying any taxes or other charges imposed upon the manufacture or traffic in such liquor. No liquor revenue stamps or tax receipts for any illegal manufacture or sale shall be issued in advance, but upon evidence of such illegal manufacture or sale a tax shall be assessed against, and collected from, the person responsible for such illegal manufacture or sale in double the amount now provided by law, with an additional penalty of $500 on retail dealers and $1,000 on manufacturers. The payment of such tax or penalty shall give no right to en-

* * * The concluding phrase of [the later enactment] by itself considered is strongly indicative of an intention to retain the old laws. But this section must be interpreted in view of the constitutional provision contained in the Eighteenth Amendment and in view of the provisions of the Volstead Act intended to make that Amendment effective.

* * * the concluding words of the first paragraph of [the later enactment], as to all the offenses charged, must be read in the light of established legal principles governing interpretation of statutes, and in view of the provisions of the Volstead Act itself making it unlawful to possess intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes, or property designed for the manufacture of such liquor, and providing for their destruction. We agree with the court below that while Congress manifested an intention to tax liquors illegally as well as those legally produced, which was within its constitutional power, it did not intend to preserve the old penalties prescribed in § 3257 in addition to the specific provision for punishment made in the Volstead Act.

We have less difficulty with the other sections of the prior revenue legislation under which the charges, already set forth, are made. We think it was not intended to gage in the manufacture or sale of such liquor, or relieve anyone from criminal liability, nor shall this Act relieve any person from any liability, civil or criminal, heretofore or hereafter incurred under existing laws. * * *"

---

keep on foot the requirement as to displaying the words "Registered Distillery" in a place intended for the production of liquor for beverage purposes which could not longer be lawfully conducted; nor to require a bond for the control of such production; nor to penalize the making of mash in a distillery which could not be authorized by law.

Moreover, this interpretation, even under the markedly more favorable indications of an intent to repeal found by the Court, was promptly overcome by Congress in the Supplementary Prohibition Act of November 23, 1921, c. 134, § 5 (42 Stat. 222, 223).[6] Thereafter, as stated by Mr. Justice Holmes (United States v. Stafoff, 260 U. S. 477, 480), "For offenses committed after the new law, United States v. Yuginovich, cannot be relied upon."[7]

[6] Congress there used the language, "all laws in regard to the manufacture and taxation of and traffic in intoxicating liquor, and all penalties for violations of such laws that were in force when the National Prohibition Act was enacted, shall be and continue in force, as to both beverage and non-beverage liquor, except such provisions of such laws as are directly in conflict with any provision of the National Prohibition Act or of this Act * * *."

[7] The other decisions of this Court cited by petitioner (Pet. 19) are even more inapposite. As in Yuginovich, most of the cases based a repeal upon statutes which rewrote the entire subject-matter of the earlier enactment and thus clearly indicated an intent of Congress to deal with all phases of the subject, as if here Congress had rewritten all provisions covering all types of fraud against the Government. Thus, in United States v. Tynen, 11 Wall. 88, 91, the repealing

2. Petitioner contends (Pet. 14, 28–30) that count one of the indictment is defective in failing to allege "sufficiently" an agreement to cause a certificate to be made that was false and known to the conspirators to be false. It is difficult to understand how language could be devised to apprise the defendants more clearly and precisely of these elements. The count alleged that the defendants (R. 1, pp. 1–5):

> did unlawfully and wilfully conspire and agree together to * * * cause [the Loan statute "embraced the whole subject of frauds against the naturalization laws." (Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95, 105.) The earlier act was one generally prohibiting employment of alien seamen, with an incidental provision with respect to naturalization frauds. And see the following cited pages of petitioner's authorities: Murdock v. Memphis, 20 Wall. 590, 592–593; King v. Cornell, 106 U. S. 395, 397; Pana v. Bowler, 107 U. S. 529, 537; United States v. Auffmordt, 122 U. S. 197, 206–207, 208; Tracy v. Tuffly, 134 U. S. 206, 222; District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18, 25; Henrietta Mining & M. Co. v. Gardner, 173 U. S. 123, 128; The Paquete Habana, 175 U. S. 677, 684; Murphy v. Utter, 186 U. S. 95, 104, 106; Chase v. United States, 256 U. S. 1, 9.

In United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546, 553, this Court relied substantially upon a specific repeal provision covering such parts of the earlier act as might be "supplied by" the later act. In United States v. Fisher, 109 U. S. 143, the language relied upon as showing a repeal appeared in a later Congressional appropriation of a certain sum "in full compensation" of the salary of a public officer; this could truly be said to be inconsistent with and a repeal of an earlier statute fixing a higher salary.

In none of the cases cited by petitioner was there as clear a mandate against repeal as in the specific language here stating that the proceeding as for misdemeanor was to be a remedy "in addition to any and all other remedies imposed by law."

> Association] to make and use a false certificate, they, the said defendants, knowing the same to contain fictitious statements and entries * * * which certificate is known as "V. A. Form 4–1820 February, 1946" * * * in that they, the said defendants, did conspire and agree together to cause the [Loan Association] to certify * * * that a certain home * * * was being sold for a total cost of $9,150 and * * * that the price * * * for the cost of construction, repairs, alterations, or improvements, does not exceed the reasonable value thereof as determined by proper appraisal dated October 30, 1947, made by Geo. J. Dooley, an appraiser designated by the Administrator; they, the said defendants, well knowing the said certification to be fraudulent and fictitious in that * * * in truth and in fact, the total cost * * * was to be $10,195; said overpayment being by a trick, scheme, and device of obtaining from [the buyer] a chattel mortgage as if on personal property upon, among other things, items part of said home, such as the kitchen sink and cabinets and the furnace * * *. The object of said conspiracy was to be accomplished as follows: [setting forth the various agreements, bill of sale, note, and chattel mortgage which the defendants "would prepare and execute"]. [Italics supplied.]

The precision and detail of the indictment in itself suffices to attest the frivolousness of the contention. Here is no mere allegation that certain acts were done but, instead, a clear charge that the acts were planned to be done—that there was a conspiracy and agreement to do what was done and with the exact object of accomplishing what was accomplished, i. e., the obtaining of a loan upon the basis of a certificate known and intended to be false.

3. Petitioner contends, lastly (Pet. 15, 30–31), that the indictment is deficient in that the overt acts alleged are not acts in pursuance of the charged conspiracy. His contention is fully answered in the language of the court below (R. 30, p. 7):

> * * * Appellant's argument overlooks the rule that the overt acts need not be in themselves criminal, and still less need they constitute the crime that is the object of the conspiracy, nor need it appear that all the conspirators joined in them or in any one of them. See United States v. Rabinowich, 238 U. S. 78, 86. * * *

It was clearly charged in the indictment that the Loan Association would be led to file the false certificate by means of the series of transactions and documents set forth in the indictment and which all the conspirators planned and intended for the end result of causing the filing of the false certificates. The steps taken by way of payments and execution of documents were overt acts which were not only outward indications of the intent to carry the conspiracy into effect but actually constituted the acts which successfully consummated everything but the last, almost ministerial act of the Loan Association in perpetration of the fraud.

CONCLUSION

The decision below is correct and no real conflict of decisions is involved. It is respectfully submitted that the petition for a writ of certiorari should be denied.

PHILIP B. PERLMAN,
Solicitor General.
JAMES M. MCINERNEY,
Assistant Attorney General.
ROBERT S. ERDAHL,
J. F. BISHOP,
Attorneys.

JANUARY 1952.

U. S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE: 1952

16

Office - Supreme Court, U. S.
FILED
JAN 25 1952
CHARLES ELMORE CROPLEY

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,
Petitioner,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

PETITIONER'S REPLY TO RESPONDENT'S BRIEF IN OPPOSITION TO THE INSTANT PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

ROGGE, FABRICANT & GORDON,
Of Counsel.

JUDICIAL PRINTING CO., INC., 82 Beekman St., N. Y.—BEekman 3-9084-5-6

INDEX

PAGE

Petitioner's Reply to Respondent's Brief 1

Conclusion 5

CASES CITED

Berman v. United States, 302 U. S. 211 ..... 2n

District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18, 27 3

Plummer v. United States, 189 F. 2d 19, 23 (C. A. D. C.) 3

United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546, 549 3

United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86 4

United States v. Tynen, 78 U. S. (11 Wall.) 88, 92 3

STATUTES

15 U. S. C. A., § 715(e) 4

18 United States Code, § 80 .....1, 2, 2n, 3n, 4, 4n

18 United States Code, §§ 287, 371, 1001 ..... 4n

18 United States Code, § 88 ..... 4n

38 United States Code, § 715 .....1, 2, 2n, 3n

38 United States Code, § 503A 2n, 4n

Public Law 772, § 21, 80th Cong., 2nd Sess. 4n

MISCELLANEOUS

82 Cong., 1 Sess., H. Rep. 235, S. Rep. 642 ..... 2n

97 C. R. 10905 ..... 2n

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,
Petitioner,
v.
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

PETITIONER'S REPLY TO RESPONDENT'S BRIEF IN OPPOSITION TO THE INSTANT PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT

It was argued at pages 14 through 28 of Petitioner's Main Brief that all of the material elements of the crime here charged are comprehended under § 715 of Title 38 of the United States Code as well as former § 80 of Title 18; that § 715, a later special fraud statute, was inconsistent with the former § 80, an earlier general fraud statute, in that § 715 prescribed a maximum period of imprisonment and a maximum fine less than the maximum sentence and fine allowable under the former § 80 and imposed upon the petitioner herein; and that, therefore, as § 715 was repugnant to the former § 80, a pro tanto repeal was worked by § 715 of former § 80.

Respondent is apparently prepared to concede the premises of petitioner without reaching petitioner's conclusion. Thus respondent does not question that the material elements of the crime here charged fall as well within § 715 as former § 80 or that former § 80 allows and petitioner has suffered a penalty in excess of the maximum penalty allowable under § 715.* Respondent nevertheless concludes that it was the congressional intent to have on the books at one and the same time statutes which make the same offense a misdemeanor if prosecuted under one section and a felony if prosecuted under another. In the circum-

* Respondent suggests that petitioner has suffered no prejudice by the prison sentence on the substantive count for the reason that said sentence was suspended and the two year period of probation was allowable even if the offense were a misdemeanor, and further suggests that any challenge to the sentence would be timely only in the event of revocation of probation and resentencing (Respondent's Brief, p. 8, footnote). This suggestion is in plain conflict with the ruling in Berman v. United States, 302 U. S. 211, which establishes the finality and appealability of a suspended sentence. Indeed, as the Court there said that probation "does not secure reconsideration of issues that have been determined or change the judgment that has been rendered" (302 U. S., at 213), it is dubious whether questions here raised and decided below concerning the propriety of the sentence would be open upon revocation of the probation. Moreover, as in Berman, petitioner is an attorney—and also a licensed real estate broker—whose right to practice and other civil rights are gravely influenced by whether he has been convicted of a felony or a misdemeanor; and that effect is not altered by the suspension of the execution of sentence. And while the two year probation term imposed by the trial judge was allowable even if in excess of the maximum sentence for the commission of a misdemeanor, still, as the probation was identical in duration with the original sentence, it is clear that the term of probation was influenced if not determined by the allowable sentence. All of the foregoing considerations are likewise applicable to the conspiracy count in this prosecution; as is acknowledged by respondent, if error was committed with respect to the substantive count, identical error arises with respect to the conspiracy count since § 715 explicitly comprehends a conspiracy.

In any event, and quite apart from the sentence of imprisonment, respondent concedes, as he must, that the fine imposed under former § 80 was in excess of the maximum fine allowable under § 715 and that petitioner was therefore prejudiced by his being indicted, prosecuted and sentenced under the former § 80.

 Respondent refers to the legislative history of the new § 503A of Title 38, wherein the Congress was advised that the Department of Justice conducted prosecutions both under § 715 and the former § 80 in situations such as here charged, to demonstrate that it was the congressional intent to authorize such alternative prosecutions for the same offense (Respondent's Brief, pp. 10-11). The hearings, debates and reports dealing with Section 503A are completely devoid of the suggestion of any such intent. See 82 Cong., 1 Sess., H. Rep. 235, S. Rep. 642. In fact, the Congress understood Section 503A to be necessary because of the small fines assessed in these cases—an understanding at variance with cognizance of the heavy felony penalties available under former § 80. 97 C. R. 10905. See also Petitioner's Main Brief, pp. 24-26 for an analysis of the purport of the language in Section 503A.

stances, even were the congressional intent to repeal not clear, this Court would be obliged to set aside respondent's construction of the statutes as absurd and inapplicable (United States v. Claflin, 97 U. S. 546, 549; District of Columbia v. Hutton, 143 U. S. 18, 27) for we think it self-evident that an accused "cannot be convicted of a felony if the sum total of the evidence is that he committed a misdemeanor". Plummer v. United States, 189 F. 2d 19, 23 (C. A. D. C.).

Respondent attempts to limit the authority of the cases cited by petitioner exclusively to situations where the later statute worked a repeal because it rewrote the entire subject matter of the earlier enactment.* (Respondent's Brief, pp. 11-15). But this distinction overlooks the alternative language utilized by the Court in United States v. Tynen, 78 U. S. (11 Wall.) 88, 92, wherein it was said that a later act repeals an earlier act "if the two are repugnant in any of their provisions" or where, if not expressly repugnant, the later covers the whole subject of the first. In the Tynen case itself, as here, the repeal is worked by the plain repugnancy between the penalty clauses of the two sections and it is therefore unnecessary to determine whether here the later act covers the whole subject of an earlier act. In the authorities quoted and discussed at pages 19 to 24 of Petitioner's Main Brief there are cited numerous instances of decisions by this Court and by various circuits where a later statute, even if not a general statute intended to cover the whole of the subject matter of an earlier statute, repealed pro tanto the earlier statute, where the later statute provided for penalties inconsistent with and repugnant to the earlier statute.*

* Even under this test, § 715, as part of a general statutory scheme governing veterans' benefits, must be deemed to repeal former § 80 pro tanto.

Heavy if not exclusive reliance is placed by respondent on the decision of this Court in United States v. Gilliland, 312 U. S. 86. That that ruling is of no assistance to respondent was demonstrated by Petitioner's Main Brief, page 24, for reasons which respondent chose not to consider or debate. In Gilliland the section which was said to conflict with former § 80 did not in terms define as a crime the making of a false certificate in connection with the administration of the "Hot Oil" Act. 15 U. S. C. A. § 715(e). Indeed, there may be some doubt whether such a fraudulent certificate could be prosecuted at all under that Act. The determination that the catch-all penalty provision before the Court in Gilliland did not supersede and was not in conflict with the general federal fraud statute is clearly no authority here where the Court is confronted with two sections both of which expressly cover criminal offenses based upon the commission of a fraud. Unless Gilliland has overruled sub silentio the uniform line of decisions deriving from Tynen, Gilliland comprehends a situation radically different from that at bar.

---

* The specious suggestion of respondent that former §§ 88 and 80 are later in time than § 715 because they were re-enacted in 1948 as §§ 287, 371 and 1001 of Title 18 and, therefore, if inconsistent with § 715, repeal said § 715, is clearly negated by § 21 of Public Law 772, 80th Cong., 2d Sess., wherein are listed the statutes intended to be repealed by the re-codification of the federal provisions concerning crimes and criminal procedure; the listing omits any reference to § 715. Indeed, as respondent has pointed out with respect to the legislative history of 38 U. S. C. A. § 503A (Respondent's Brief, pp. 10-11), the Department of Justice does not consider that the re-codification of the federal criminal code had the effect of repealing § 715 since the Department announced to the Congress as recently as 1951 that it was prosecuting offenders under § 715.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner prays that a writ of certiorari issue to the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit to review its judgment and that upon such review the judgment be reversed.

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,
Petitioner.

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

Of Counsel:
ROGGE, FABRICANT & GORDON.

FILED
FEB 8 1952
CHARLES ELMORE CROP
CLE

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,

Petitioner,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PETITION FOR REHEARING

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

JUDICIAL PRINTING CO., INC., 82 Beekman St., N. Y.—BEekman 3-9084-5-6

IN THE

Supreme Court of the United States

OCTOBER TERM—1951

No. 470

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,

Petitioner,

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PETITION FOR REHEARING

To the Honorable Chief Justice of the United States and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States:

The petitioner herein prays for a rehearing and reversal of the order entered herein on January 28, 1952 denying his petition for a writ of certiorari to the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. This petition for rehearing is based upon substantial grounds available to petitioner although not previously presented.

Petitioner was indicted, prosecuted and convicted under former §§ 80 and 88 of Title 18, U. S. C. He was fined $5,000 on the conspiracy charge and on the substantive count judgment and sentence was suspended and petitioner was placed on probation for a period of two years. Under 38 U. S. C. § 715, which petitioner has contended is exclusively applicable, the maximum penalty which could be imposed was a fine of $1,000 and/or imprisonment for one year. It will be specifically observed that § 715 explicitly extends to comprehend not only the elements of the substantive charge in this case but also the conspiracy count so that if § 715 is, as contended, exclusively applicable, the conspiracy as well as the substantive count could be prosecuted only under said § 715.

Respondent, upon the instant petition, attempted to minimize the prejudice suffered by petitioner even if the exclusive applicability of § 715 were conceded. Thus, in an extensive footnote at page 8 of respondent's brief in opposition to the instant petition it is urged that so far as the suspended sentence is involved, the petitioner is exposed to no present or immediate prejudice by the application of the wrongful statute for the alleged reason that the period of probation is authorized even if the offense is a misdemeanor and, further, that so long as the sentence remains suspended and the petitioner on probation it is premature to complain of the excessive sentence. No question is raised, and it is apparently conceded, that the fine is in excess of the maximum allowed by § 715 and, therefore, prejudicial to the petitioner.

Petitioner did make answer in his reply brief to the foregoing contention by respondent. At a footnote in page 2 of his reply brief petitioner pointed out that suspension of sentence does not preclude challenge to the validity of the sentence. Berman v. United States, 302 U. S. 211. This observation is here particularly appropriate since the error in sentencing determined whether petitioner had been convicted of a misdemeanor or a felony —a distinction significant to one who, like petitioner, is licensed to practice law and act as a real estate broker— irrespective of the suspension of sentence. However, petitioner's reply brief was not filed with this Court until late on January 25, 1952, immediately preceding the conference held by the Court on January 26, 1952, wherein, petitioner is advised, the instant petition was probably taken under advisement and consideration. Accordingly, petitioner treats the point here under discussion and the consideration thereof in his reply brief as a matter properly submitted upon the instant petition for rehearing and respectfully refers the discussion therein to the Court's consideration.

For similar reasons the other matters discussed in petitioner's reply brief are herewith respectfully referred to the consideration of this Court upon the instant petition for rehearing as if fully set forth herein.

CONCLUSION

It is respectfully prayed that this petition for rehearing be granted and upon rehearing that the order of this Court denying the petition for a writ of certiorari to the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit be reversed and the said petition be granted.

LOUIS B. ADERMAN,
Petitioner.

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

Certificate

Counsel for petitioner certify that this petition for rehearing is presented in good faith and not for delay and that the petition is restricted to the grounds above specified.

O. JOHN ROGGE,
MURRAY A. GORDON,
Attorneys for Petitioner.